

The Emergency Management webinar series is designed to provide participants with up-to-date information on emergency management best practices, approaches, strategies, technologies, as well as individual experiences and success stories. Each webinar involves various speakers presenting on and sharing their experiences related to the chosen topic. At the end of each session, there is an opportunity for questions posed by participants and those submitted in advance via email. In addition to airing live, each webinar is recorded and available for future viewing. These webinars are designed for emergency management practitioners though applicable to anyone with an interest enhancing their emergency management knowledge.

Webinar #36 Submitting a Successful Response Claim

Purpose: This presentation will help guide listeners through the principles of eligibility of emergency response and recovery costs under the Emergency Program Act and what Emergency Management British Columbia requires from local government and First Nations to allow reimbursement for the eligible costs claimed. This step-by-step webinar is designed to help the listener understand the principles of eligibility, as well as the procedure and documentation needed to support the eligibility when submitting a response claim. (This webinar is applicable to the Province of BC)
