AREAS OF STUDY

Law Enforcement

JIBC’s Law Enforcement & Investigation programs provide hands-on training in investigative techniques, enforcement skills, and Canadian law. You’ll study criminal, civil, and administrative law while developing key soft skills such as negotiation and mediation.

Paramedicine

Prepare for a career that makes a true difference in people’s lives. Be trained to respond to medical and trauma emergencies.

Paramedics respond to 911 emergency calls. When they arrive at the scene of an emergency, they use their knowledge to assess a patient’s condition. After assessment, they take action by applying recommended guidelines and procedures.

Program Outcome

Graduates of JIBC programs build meaningful careers across Canada’s public safety and health sectors. Law Enforcement Studies alumni work in areas such as compliance, investigations, bylaw enforcement, and legal support, with some international graduates becoming police officers, instructors, or lawyers. JIBC’s Paramedicine programs prepare graduates to respond to medical and trauma emergencies, assess patients on scene, and deliver critical care, opening pathways to trusted, community-focused careers.
