- D014      Interpersonal Communications in the Correctional Setting (DVD, 100 minutes)
- This DVD and CD-ROM package features a training program based on a basic communication skills model developed by Robert R. Carhuff. This model has been used for more than 35 years to train correctional officers and counselors. The program begins with an introduction to the interpersonal communication (IPC) model. Five sessions cover the basics of sizing up the situation; these include positioning, posturing, observing, listening. Five sessions cover the “add-ons” of communicating with inmates; these include the following: responding to inmates, identifying content; responding to inmates, identifying feeling; responding to inmates, identifying meaning; and asking questions. Four sessions cover the applications of managing behavior; these include handling requests, making requests, and reinforcing behavior. Materials on the CD-ROM include an instructor guide, participant manual, and the competency test and answer key. Video segments on the DVD include narrative introductions to the skill being discussed and dramatized scenes that show the lack or use of the skill being covered.
